Programs and Projects

The Kromata Program: educating young children through music, vocabulary, numbers and movement, has been a great success. The program is designed to foster creativity and critical thinking in young children. The program has been implemented in various countries, including the Republic of Tatarstan, Kazan, Russia.

The program has been partly supported by the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands and the Association of Muslim Social Scientists in Britain, London, GB.

The program focuses on the educational field that the histories of East and West need to be related to one another in order to achieve the best positive results. It is designed for early childhood development, using an organic way to achieve the best positive results. The program is layered by gradually increasing the range of rhythmic patterns commencing with simple applications of elements in early childhood music education.

Between 600 and 1300, Orthodox Christianity spread from southern to northern Europe, from Bulgaria to Iceland. The program aims to educate young children through music, vocabulary, numbers and movement.

The program is funded by the European Commission and reflects the views of the author, and the Commission cannot be held responsible for any use which may be made of the information contained therein.
